Mr. Carroll then made a short speech in which he said that no convention ever called together in Kentucky had a more important duty to perform. Upon the action of this convention, he declared, the welfare and safety of this people largely depended. He counseled harmony and closed by saying: "Let us stand together, silver and gold, to fight a common foe."

W. J. Stone, of Lyon county, and Wm. Beckner, of Clark, were placed in nomination for temporary chairman, the former by a Clay "sound-money" man, the latter by a Hardin silver man. The test vote resulted: Beckner (Hardin), 48814; Stone, (Clay), 39014;

Judge Beckner, in taking his place chairman of the convention, said: "I do not take the result of this ballot as a rempliment to myself. The gentleman I have seen fit to represent in this convention has won the fight. We have met here at a time when the return of prosperity is vindicating the democratic party. Everything is happening just as the democrats said it wound. Let us act in harmony."

"First—The democracy of Kentucky, in convention assembled, congratulate the country upon the repeal of the McKinley tariff law, and upon the evidences we have on every hand of returning prosperity, under the operations of reduced and equalized tariff taxation; and we demounce as fraught with danger and disaster the threat of our republican adversaries to restablish a protective tariff and to re-inaugurate a policy of unequal taxation, which, in connection with general misgovernment by the republican party, culminated in the business panic of 1893.

It was accomplished very easily, Those who made the Beckner arrange ment threw a number of Clay votes to Stone, Buckner and Watterson. It was eleverly done. The announcement was received with great enthusiasm by those who voted for Hardin. Most of the Clay men kept their seats, how-ever, and took little part in the demon-stration. John D. Clay, a relative of Clay, moved to make the nomination ous. This was of course carried with a rush. After speeches by both Hardin and Clay, nominations for lieutenant gov ernor were called for and R. T. Tyler, of Fulton county; Oscar Turner, jr., of Louisville, and M. D.
